Peter Drey, AIA, ASLA
Principal

University of Georgia, Master of Landscape Architecture, 1981
Tulane University, Bachelor of Architecture, 1975
Louisiana State University, Graduate Studies in Landscape Architecture

Peter Drey is both an architect and landscape architect with over nineteen years of diverse experience with projects involving innovative design, environmentalism and humane urbanism in many American cities such as Washington, DC, New York City and Atlanta, as well as abroad.

As principal of PETER DREY & COMPANY in Atlanta, Mr. Drey has provided design expertise for many buildings, public spaces, parks and streetscapes. In particular, he focuses on projects in historic cities which improve the quality of life and functionality of the historic city core. This may involve creative infill construction, historic preservation, building revitalization, building and zoning codes, and the development of innovative programs for financing, management and project implementation.

He has been presented with awards by the American Institute of Architects, an Award of Excellence in Design by the Atlanta Urban Design Commission, and two American Society of Landscape Architects Honor Awards for his designs of Marietta Street in downtown Atlanta and the Albany Downtown Riverfront Master Plan. He is a boardmember of Urban Atlanta, Inc., has served as an invited juror for the Rome Prize Southern Arts Federation award panel, and has been an invited speaker at numerous seminars, conventions and professional symposiums. Recently he addressed the AIA's Historic Resources meeting in Charleston, SC, where he spoke on "New Building in Historic Districts." His articles have been published in the regional press, and his plan for downtown Albany, Georgia was featured in October, 1997's Landscape Architecture magazine.

Peter Drey & Company is headquartered in midtown Atlanta. Mr. Drey has been an Atlanta resident since 1984.
