About Me

Born and raised in Atlanta, I bought the house I was raised in when my father retired from Georgia Tech, where he had been an English professor for 40 yrs. I am a graduate of GSU and have lived, loved, worked, played and prayed within 5 miles of my current home for most of my life. My son has attended only Atlanta Public Schools and I work for Coca-Cola's Credit Union.

I am the quintessential in-town gal and have seen changes in this city that most people have only heard about. I was raised by politically active parents, who taught me appreciation for, and a dedication to, my city and instilled in me a sense of duty to serve my community. I have been actively involved in my neighborhood for over 20 years and currently serve on several community-based boards; my neighborhood association (Poncey-Highland), NPU (N) and APAB.

I am politically active, helping good community-oriented people get elected to political office so they can lift up our communities and empower its residents.

...committed mother, daughter, sister (of 6 brothers!) and friend, community activista lot of energy, commitment to serve, well organized, sense of humor and I love to sing and spend time with my wonderful friends and family.
