Over 6 years ago, parent leaders from across the city came together to find collective ways to advocate for education in Atlanta Public Schools, for too often the city has been divided by race and location. In an effort to unify the city and advocate for ALL children, these leaders decided it was time to find ways to work together. Out of this collaboration Atlanta Parents for Atlanta Public Schools was birthed. The purpose was to de-mystify and de-construct the legislative process by bringing the “Gold Dome to the Community!” This event is free and open to the public with free parking. For the last three years, local leaders from APS, Atlanta city council, Fulton County and state legislators have gathered to meet and greet community members.
