The City, Invest Atlanta, and Atlanta Housing have learned several lessons from the implementation of 2007 and 2017 Housing Opportunity Bond Program.

- Program components should be flexible: allows us to respond to changes in market conditions & demands quickly and efficiently.
- Down Payment Assistance most desirable: nearly half of previous HOB funding was used for down payment indicating there's a great need.
- Must provide programs that focus on existing residents: existing residents are facing displacement in rapidly gentrifying communities.
- Preservation projects must be top priority: flexible source of funds needed to preserve existing small scale multifamily
- Acquisition of strategic parcels essential: inventory must be controlled by city agencies or mission driven developers focused on affordable housing.
- Interagency coordination is critical: all three housing agency must work together and leverage resources to serve ALL populations; must have rental subsidy to service people at 30% AMI & below.
